Introduction

Hi, and welcome to one of several guides I intend to work on for Mario & Luigi: Superstar Saga! This guide is mostly just an overview of a number of things in the game's item systems: namely, the effects of items and equipment, and where to obtain them. In particular, this guide will pay great attention to the fact that, unbeknownst to many, item effects and the like more often than not differ between the US/International versions of the title, and the Japanese version. This guide will attempt to outline these differences as well as other sorts of useful info for you.

Enjoy!

(INT) Items

(Note that the ID #, which is used by the game's code to identify items - and thus useful for those using cheating devices and the like - is written in decimal, not hexadecimal, in the below list. So for example, item #16, Red Pepper, has a hexadecimal ID of $10.)

Also note that these are the base costs for the items. If you're buying the item - not all can be bought, though all have costs programmed into the game - see the appropriate discount section to determine how much off you get.

(INT) Accessories

The final subset of your items, accessories are your reward for doing stuff in the Starbeans Cafe. By making new drinks you will be given these accessories. They have the following effects (and are actually constant between versions :O).

ID #	Accessory Name	Effects	How to Obtain
0	Greed Wallet	Doubles the Coins you receive from battle.	Mark your first drink ever.
1	Bonus Ring	Doubles EXP. earned in battle, provided you take no damage.	Make your second new drink.
2	Excite Spring	By holding the Jump button, the wielder floats on the defense in battle.	Make your third new drink.
3	Great Force	Doubles the damage you both deal out and take in.	Make your fourth new drink.
4	Power Grip	Assures you never drop the hammerhead on the defense in battle.	Make your fifth new drink.
5	Cobalt Necktie	Effectively doubles your 'Stache.	Make your sixth new drink.
6	GameBoy Horror SP	You're assured to get rare items from battles.	Make all drinks possible.

(JP) Badges

(Note that the ID #, which is used by the game's code to identify items - and thus useful for those using cheating devices and the like - is written in decimal, not hexadecimal, in the below list.

Also note that these are the base costs for the items. If you're buying the item - not all can be bought, though all have costs programmed into the game - see the appropriate discount section to determine how much off you get.

(JP) Accessories

The final subset of your items, accessories are your reward for doing stuff in the Starbeans Cafe. By making new drinks you will be given these accessories. They have the following effects (and are actually constant between versions :O).

ID #	Accessory Name	Effects	How to Obtain
0	Greed Wallet	Doubles the Coins you receive from battle.	Mark your first drink ever.
1	Bonus Ring	Doubles EXP. earned in battle, provided you take no damage.	Make your second new drink.
2	Excite Spring	By holding the Jump button, the wielder floats on the defense in battle.	Make your third new drink.
3	Great Force	Doubles the damage you both deal out and take in.	Make your fourth new drink.
4	Power Grip	Assures you never drop the hammerhead on the defense in battle.	Make your fifth new drink.
5	Cobalt Necktie	Effectively doubles your 'Stache.	Make your sixth new drink.
6	GameBoy Horror SP	You're assured to get rare items from battles.	Make all drinks possible.

Appendix

Mush Badge Damage Bonus

The Mush Badge, as well as its A and AA varieties, have an ability known as "Shroom Force". Shroom Force applies a flat damage bonus onto the damage you normally deal, and it will do so based on the Mushrooms you have and how many of them you have. Between the international and the Japanese release of Superstar Saga, the bonus was nerfed significantly. The calculations for the bonuses are below:

International: Bonus =  $[(\text{Mushroom} * 51) + (\text{Super} * 51) + (\text{Ultra} * 64) + (\text{Max} * 76)] / 256$

Japanese: Bonus =  $[(\text{Mushroom} * 20) + (\text{Super} * 25) + (\text{Ultra} * 30) + (\text{Max} * 51)] / 256$

If you're curious, a maximum stock - 99 each of Mushrooms, Super Mushrooms, Ultra Mushrooms, and Max Mushrooms - will produce damage bonuses of 93 and 48 on the International and Japanese versions respectively. (Thus the Japanese version averages about 51.6% of the international version.) Still, pay mind to the fact that this is applied to every attack the wielder makes, so it is still very significant.

International 'Stache Discounts

At shops, your 'Stache stat has a special ability: it can influence the prices of items! As your 'Stache improves, the prices will too. This little subsection of the guide is specifically meant to discuss the actual mechanics behind this - with specific regards to the international release of the game.

All items that you can buy and sell fall into one of several groups. These groups determine the actual discounts received for a specific 'Stache stat. These are the groups that the items fall into:

DISCOUNT GROUP 1		DISCOUNT GROUP 2		DISCOUNT GROUP 3		DISCOUNT GROUP 4		DISCOUNT GROUP 5		DISCOUNT GROUP 6

Japanese 'Stache Discounts

At shops, your 'Stache stat has a special ability: it can influence the prices of items! As your 'Stache improves, the prices will too. This little subsection of the guide is specifically meant to discuss the actual mechanics behind this - with specific regards to the Japanese release of the game.

All items that you can buy and sell fall into one of several groups. These groups determine the actual discounts received for a specific 'Stache stat. These are the groups that the items fall into:

DISCOUNT GROUP 1		DISCOUNT GROUP 2		DISCOUNT GROUP 3		DISCOUNT GROUP 4		DISCOUNT GROUP 5		DISCOUNT GROUP 6
