I. Introduction

Ah, F-Zero GX. A masterpiece of a racing game, addictingly fun, yet extremely difficult to master. Nevertheless, that excruciating difficulty is what brings many fans back to this game, as it gives a sense of overwhelming exhilaration. No wonder this is a good game; it was made by the joint efforts of Nintendo and Sega, old-time rivals who have each bestowed countless masterpieces upon gamers in the past. They should do more collaboration projects like this... But I digress.

Anyway, back to the topic at hand. One of the features this game has is an Interview section, where the main reporter of the game, Mr. Zero, interviews the driver you've chosen whenever you win a Grand Prix. Many of the interviews are interesting/downright hilarious, and I definitely think that there would be many people who would be interested in knowing more about their favorite racer and any wacky responses they would make.

However, as I mentioned above, the difficulty of this game is quite punishing. So, there will be few people who can manage to unlock every single interview for their favorite driver, let alone every single interview for every single driver. Another thing is that F-Zero GX lacks an interview collection menu where you can view interview scripts you've unlocked, though it does denote which interviews you've already viewed by shading the choices for them the next time you get to choose.

That's where this guide comes in. This guide aims to help anyone who wants to know how the drivers respond to Mr. Zero's questions, whether it's because of curiosity, or because they couldn't unlock it themselves. It will also serve as a compilation of the interviews for anyone interested, something that does not exist in the game itself.

One thing to note is that Mr. Zero's questions do not exactly match the wording of the choices you are given before the actual interviews, though the gist is still largely the same. This guide will prioritize Mr. Zero's actual words rather than the choices given by the game, so apologies in advance if, by chance, you get confused while reading the guide.

Of course, this guide is bound to be littered with SPOILERS since it can go quite deep with some of the drivers' personal histories, so in case you hate spoilers with a passion, I advise you to think a bit more before reading further.

Enjoy!

II. Version History

Ver 0.1 Jul 10th 2010

The idea popped up about making the perfect Interview Guide for this game. After consulting some of the message board members, got down to it and started the guide. Only has the bare-bones material at this point, but is rapidly growing.

Ver 1.0 Jul 25th 2010

Finished the Interview Guide, and every single interview script I could find. I presume any updates to be made will be a few I might have missed, rectifying small errors I overlooked in the guide, or technical ones that have little to do with the main focus of the guide itself. Anyway, this guide... is mostly finished. Submitted to, and accepted by GameFAQs.

Ver 1.1 Jul 28th 2010

highwatermark found a Japanese site that lists every single character's every single interview! Even the ones I deemed 'missing, presumed censored' and left gaps for in the guide! The downside is that they are all in Japanese. I don't have the actual English scripts for these interviews, but oh well, bad translations are better than nothing, right? Added up all the info on these once-missing four interviews. Now every character has 16 interviews total! Again, thanks, highwatermark! Now the guide can truly call itself 'finished'!

Ver 1.15 Jul 29th 2010

highwatermark provided links for more videos. Thanks to him, I now have the exact scripts for Baba, Pico, and Digi-Boy as well! Now this guide is truly complete. Added Neoseeker.com to the list of sites authorized to use this guide.

Ver 1.16 Dec 18th 2011

Thanks to highwatermark, found a small case of script editing between versions in one of Roger Buster's interviews, and have added it to the guide.

III. The Basics of Mr. Zero's Interviews

First, before we get to the script proper, I'll explain about the interviews themselves.

For each difficulty of Novice, Standard and Expert, each driver has three questions which can be asked. These nine questions are nearly identical for every driver. There also exist two 'secret' questions, for each of the three difficulties. One of these secret questions can be accessed as a fourth question by beating the fourth GP Cup, Diamond. The other can be accessed in the same way by beating the fifth, super-secret Cup, AX Cup.

In case of the hardest difficulty, Master, it seems that the game recycles a few of the questions from the three easier difficulties, especially the secret questions, yet there also seems to be a few questions that are exclusive to Master difficulty. Generally, these questions tend to be more personal ones, tailored for each racer.

Altogether, each driver has a total of 16 different interviews, and all of them are listed in this guide. I thank highwatermark for helping me get the more elusive, 'censored' interviews.

As I mentioned in the intro, whenever you beat a Cup, Mr. Zero asks a question, which you get to choose, and your driver will respond. Naturally, you would think of building a broken custom machine, seat your driver in it and win every single Cup to get all the interviews. However, this doesn't work.

Why? Because Mr. Zero does not conduct interviews with a driver in a custom machine. Which means that, if you want to see Black Shadow's interviews, you'll have to beat Grand Prix races with Black Shadow's personal craft, the Black Bull. Same for every one of the 41 drivers.

As for Mr. Zero himself, he wears a green suit on Novice, a purple suit on Standard and Expert (a blue shirt on Standard, and a green shirt on Expert), and a white suit on Master difficulty. Also, if you listen to the tone of his voice, you can notice that he gets more and more agitated/excited the higher the difficulty of the Grand Prix you won is. An example can be seen in his opening sequences to the interviews:

Novice/Standard: From the special F-Zero GP venue, we're broadcasting an interview with the Grand Prix Champion. Okay then, I'd like to ask you something.

Expert: Now I'd like to get up close and personal with the champion! Champion! I'd like to interview you!

Master: F-Zero TV, who has brought you heated race after heated race, will now present an interview with the champion! Okay then, I'd like to ask you something!

And his closing sequences after your character replies:

Novice/Standard: That's it, everyone. We'll see you at the next Grand Prix.

Expert/Master: Either of the following two before wrapping up the interview as in Novice/Standard (but with more enthusiasm):

- a) And that's all for adrenalin-driven F-Zero TV!
- b) This has been a speed-crazy dream-extravaganza episode of F-Zero TV!

One last piece of interesting info: Mr. Zero is absolutely terrified of some of the drivers, thus, when he is conducting interviews with them, he's trembling and stuttering with pure fear. The drivers who receive this response from Mr. Zero are 00-Deathborn, 06-Pico, 13-Zoda, 25-Blood Falcon, and 30-Black Shadow. In these cases, Mr. Zero's opening sequences differ, like the following:

Novice/Standard: (Same words, but with stammering, and a shaky, high-tone voice)

Expert/Master: Next on F-Zero TV... We'll risk our lives to interview the champion!... Uh, Champion... c-could we have a few words with you?...

And so does his closing sequence:

All difficulties: Unfortunately, it's time to say good-bye on F-Zero TV.
G-Good-bye everyone, and keep on racing!...

IV. The Interview Script

Welcome to the main part of this guide.

The interviews will be listed in order of the racers' machine numbers, starting from 00-Deathborn, and ending with 40-Phoenix. I'll write the machines' names in parentheses as well, in case some people don't recognize the actual drivers' names.

Of course, Q denotes Mr. Zero's questions/remarks, and A denotes the driver's responses.

Have fun reading your favorite drivers' words!

(Note: Some of the interviews have been censored from NTSC releases of F-Zero GX, and thus cannot be viewed normally. The scripts are all intact in Japanese versions of F-Zero GX, and I have managed to find them. Thanks to highwatermark for letting me know of these missing interviews' existence! More info about these censored interviews will be found in detail under the very racers who got themselves censored; namely, Baba, Pico, Roger Buster, Black Shadow, and Digi-Boy.)

Q: Not even Falcon could stop you.

A: It was time that someone good-looking won this race!

Q: What a powerful, dynamic performance you gave us today!

A: Never underestimate a man in drag!

(Note: Baba's first Expert difficulty interview, and his last Master/Secret interview are censored in NTSC releases of F-Zero GX. The former is likely because Baba, a man, is calling himself a goddess(gender confusion much?...), and as for the second one... well, 'man in drag' sums up the reason. In case of the Expert difficulty interview, the 'Not even Falcon could stop you.' question replaces it as a question to be asked on Expert difficulty, while the Master/Secret question is simply missing with no replacement.)

A: Pedal to the metal! Samurai Goroh stops for no one!

Q: What are your plans, now that you've won?

A: Have it out with Falcon! points at camera You wouldn't run away from a challenge, would you, Falcon?!

Q: We'll take a look at that in a special program after F-Zero TV!

Q: How will you use the one billion space credits in prize money?

A: That's a pittance. I'll take it to the casino, and come back with a 100 times as much!

Master/Secret:

Q: May I have your autograph, Champ?

A: Sure! As many as you want! Hahahaha! makes a giant handprint

Q: I'd like to present this autograph to one lucky viewer on F-Zero TV! Here's the address! points to some unintelligible symbols/coordinates

Q: Are you really the boss of a gang of thieves?

A: Yes, I am! And I've stolen this victory! Muhahaha!

Q: We hear you like to drink.

A: Yeah. Drink a toast to my success. And to the look on Falcon's face right now!

Q: There doesn't seem to be anyone who can beat you!

A: Haha! Samurai Goroh's time has come!

Q: We're overwhelmed with young people who want to join your gang of thieves!

A: Come with me, if you dare! We'll rule the universe!

Q: We hear you have a lot of secret fans out there.

A: Samurai Goroh never lets his fans down!

Q: Falcon looked pretty unhappy.

A: Ha! I'm a better racer, and a better bounty hunter!

06 - Pico (Wild Goose)

Novice:

Q: Congratulations on your stunning victory!

A: The thrill of F-Zero reminds me of the battlefield.

Q: Can you tell us why you became an F-Zero racer?

A: Anyone you want taken care of, just let me know!

Q: What are your other interests?

A: I collect knives. And they all cut veeeeeeery well.

Q: What kind of food do you like?

A: A nice slab of steak, dripping with blood.

Q: Aren't you ever afraid during races?

A: What are you talking about? I love the danger!

(Note: Pico's third Novice difficulty interview is censored in NTSC releases of F-Zero GX. As to the reason, I'm guessing it's because of the blatant usage of Superman's catchphrase (faster than a speeding bullet) and that they were afraid of getting sued by DC over using it, though it's also possible that these twitchy censors actually wanted to avoid using the word 'bullet'. Anyway, the first Standard difficulty interview ('What was the key to your victory?') replaces this question as a question to be asked on Novice difficulty, and is also asked on Standard difficulty as well.)

07 - Captain Falcon (Blue Falcon)

Novice:

A: Thank you. I couldn't have done it without my fans.

Q: We're looking forward to it!

Master/Secret:

Q: May I have your autograph, Champ?

A: Of course. How's this? signs

A: raises fist YEAH!!!

Q: What's the most important requirement for a racer?

A: beats chest with one fist HEART!

Q: What do you do when you're not racing?

A: Chase prize money. I'm a bounty hunter.

Q: Will you let us see your face?

A: If you can beat me in a race, I'll show you.

Q: I want to be a racer like you!

A: Hmm. You're quite sharp, aren't you? You'd make a good racer.

Q: Is it true that you're thinking of retiring?

A: Of course not. There are still rivals to be defeated. The battle is just beginning.

Q: How do you spend your days off?

A: Lounging in the sun, and taking ice-cold seawater showers.

Q: You're finally able to go back to your planet.

A: I miss the oceans of home.

Q: Is being an octopus inconvenient?

A: Oh, yes. There are people who want to eat me!

Q: You've defeated your old rival, Jody Summer!

Q: Do you have anything you pay attention to when you race?

A: Dieting. It's really hard getting in and out of the machine.

28 - Roger Buster (Mighty Hurricane)

Q: What are your plans, now that you've won?

A: I'm really tired. I think I'll hit the sauna for a while, then rest.

Q: How will you use the one billion space credits in prize money?

A: First of all, on a nice, cold beer! [drink!]

Master/Secret:

Q: May I have your autograph, Champ?

A: Me, giving autographs? I may even put out my own CD! signs

Q: I'd like to present this autograph to one lucky viewer on F-Zero TV! Here's the address! points to some unintelligible symbols/coordinates

Q: What does it take to be a good delivery van driver?

A: A delivery driver must put the safety of the cargo ahead of his own life!

Q: What will you do if someone turns up to claim the machine?

A: My job is to deliver it to them.

Q: Is being a delivery driver dangerous?

A: Once I messed up a job, and ended displaced, just drifting around the galaxy.

Q: How do you enjoy your life?

A: A drink after work! shrugs

Q: How was the race?

A: It was thrilling!

Q: Your driving technique is amazing!

A: I carry goods back and forth across the galaxy. The race was nothing by comparison.

(Note: Roger Buster's third Expert difficulty interview is edited in NTSC releases of F-Zero GX, so that the last word is 'drink', not 'beer'. This is most likely because Roger Buster's job is a truck driver, and his buying beer would imply drunk driving... Another case of twitchy censors, I'd say. I mean, he never said he'd drink it while at work, did he?)

29 - Dr. Clash (Crazy Bear)

Q: How will you use the one billion space credits in prize money?

A: Hmm... I think I'll build a giant F-Zero machine.

Master/Secret:

Q: May I have your autograph, Champ?

Q: I'd like to present this autograph to one lucky viewer on F-Zero TV! Here's the address! points to some unintelligible symbols/coordinates

Q: Have you ever been tempted to give up F-Zero racing?

A: My dreams of racing are the engine fuel that keeps me going. To give up would be to die!

Q: There were a lot of dangerous racers out there today.

A: They needed the screws in their heads tightened. I did it for them!
Ahahahahahaha!

Q: Crazy Bear is a great machine!

A: No, it still needs work. The microwave is on the blink, and the TV doesn't work!

Q: With all your skill as a racer, why have you chosen to be a mechanic?

A: Science. It can send us up into the sky, or out into space.

Q: What do you think of the other machines?

A: Garbage should go in the garbage can, and those machines should go on the scrap heap! Hahahahahaha!

Q: We hear rumors that a giant F-Zero has been completed!

A: Take me on, Falcon! Or are you going to run away with your tail between your legs?

Q: The Galactic Space Federation is banding together to have you arrested!...

A: The Federation's control of the seven galaxies ends tonight! Hahahahaha!!!

Q: Will you take your mask off?

A: It's brave of you to even ask me that.

Q: Th-thank you, Champion!...

Q: Would you share your future dreams with us?

A: World destruction! And then, building a new world the way I want it!
Hahahahaha!

(Note: Black Shadow's second Standard difficulty interview is censored in NTSC releases of F-Zero GX, most likely due to mentioning 'sending someone to hell'. The 'Will you take your mask off?' question replaces this question as a question to be asked on Standard difficulty.)

31 - Don Genie (Fat Shark)

Novice:

Q: Congratulations on your stunning victory!

A: It's not as exciting as it's rumored to be...

A: Those who should be at the top, get there. That's all there is to it.

Q: What are your plans, now that you've won?

A: I have to go to a very important meeting. It may even affect the F-Zero.

Q: How will you use the one billion space credits in prize money?

A: This won't even pay for my cigars!

Master/Secret:

Q: May I have your autograph, Champ?

A: swats away the signature board No, they're a complete waste of time!

Q: It's common knowledge that you've never been beaten.

A: That's right! I've taken every chance that came my way, and clawed my way out of the slums.

Q: What's the biggest thing you've ever spent money on?

A: Taking over the F-Zero will be my biggest financial commitment.

Q: Are there any racers you'd definitely like to keep in the F-Zero?

A: None of them amount to much. But Falcon has potential.

Q: Are you going to donate some of your prize money to charity?

A: I'm not going to waste even one credit on charity!

Q: What are your total assets?

A: I get more interest per second than the prize money of this race!

Q: How does one become a financier like yourself?

A: I've had to walk over the top of my opposition to get here. Could you do that?!

32 - Digi-Boy (Cosmic Dolphin)

Novice:

Q: Congratulations on your stunning victory!

A: Haha! Who can beat my brains?

Q: Can you tell us why you became an F-Zero racer?

A: It was to check whether my simulation of the F-Zero was accurate.

A: The computer program does all the hard work. I can operate it one-handed.

close-up shot of the vehicle

Q: I'd love to ride in that kind of machine just once in my life!

A: Huh?! Uh... they think they can beat me?

Q: A message for all your TV fans out there?

A: Everyone in my class, are you watching? The machine I made won!

Expert:

Q: The winner of the Expert Class. Congratulations!

A: QED! This should prove that my simulations are always accurate!

(Note: For those who don't know, QED means the Latin phrase 'quod erat demonstrandum', which can be loosely translated as 'thus it has been proved'.)

Q: What are your plans, now that you've won?

A: I'm presenting an academic paper based on my research of the F-Zero.

Q: How will you use the one billion space credits in prize money?

A: Capital for my company. We're developing a system that will change history!

Master/Secret:

Q: Would you share your dreams with us?

A: Fieldwork is essential in research. I want to get out there and have adventures! spins in place

Q: Is that your school badge?

A: It's from the Einstein Institute, where the brightest students in the galaxy go. I'm their number one!

Q: Can you tell us what kind of things you're interested in?

A: I'd like to do some research into Samurai Goroh. He's intriguing.

Q: What else are you interested in?

A: Astronomy. It's the cornerstone of all my scientific research.

Q: Are you interested in girls?

A: There's a girl named Sharon in my class... But that's not quite going according to my simulation.

Q: Do you believe in God?

A: Hahaha. Who believes in such illusions?

(Note: The last one of Digi-Boy's Master/Secret interviews is censored in NTSC releases of F-Zero GX. As to the reason, well, his character is one that worships science, and his dismissal of God as an illusion in that question must have annoyed the censors deeply and caused them to think that Digi-Boy will be a bad influence to today's children(Why so serious?! This is just a video game, for heaven's sake!...). Sad and ridiculous, but nothing we can do about that. As this was a Master/Secret interview, this question was simply cut out of the final game with no replacements whatsoever.)

D: It's unbeatable! close-up shot of the vehicle

G: I'd love to ride in that kind of machine just once in my life!

(There is a bit of inconsistency here; Dai San Gen's profile shows them as hailing from 'Shinar'(not Chinul) and the creator is said to be one 'Professor Tsumo'(not Dr. Reach). They could be minor errors on the developer's part.)

D: We'll win three races and each keep a trophy!

Q: Which one of you is the fastest?

D: I handle the machine the best.

Q: Can you tell us what's important to you?

A: My three-year-old son. He's starting to look just like me.

Q: What's your best magic trick?

Q: Can you tell us what's going to be in fashion in the 29th century?

A: I am not allowed to pass on information, unless it's vital to my duties.

Interesting, fun tidbits about the interviews in general

When Mr. Zero asks for the autographs of the racers who scare him, and gets them, he forgets to offer them to the viewers in his extreme terror.

When Mr. Zero asks the 'scary' racers about their machines, notably, he does not remark that he would like to ride in a machine like theirs once in his life. Actually, Mr. Zero doesn't even ASK Pico about his machine, as far as I know...

Deathborn and Don Genie hold distinction as the only two racers who refuse when Mr. Zero asks them for a signature.
