Welcome to this guide for Roger Clemens' MVP Baseball for the NES. This FAQ is for the NES Completion Project started by the FAQ Contributors Board at GameFAQs. Usually for old sports games, they seem very outdated compared to the new and improved versions, but this one caught my eye. With a unique fielding perspective, this game deserves to be recognized. Even though it's harder than hell to hit the ball...>_>

Game Basics [00003]

This is the section that you'll want to read before playing this game.

=====
Controls [00013]
=====

D-Pad.....Moves player/pitch/base to throw ball
A.....Throws ball/Swings bat/Menu select
B.....Menu cancel
Start.....Pause Game
Select.....N/A

=====
Batting [00023]
=====

Batting in this game is very simple...if the opposing pitcher wouldn't pitch like lightning! Anyway, to swing the bat, simple press the A button. Of course, timing is crucial. With a fast pitch, be ready to swing soon after he releases the ball. With a slow pitch, be patient and let the ball get to you. To bunt the ball, simply tap the A button and your player will square up for a bunt.

=====
Pitching [00033]
=====

Pitching is just like every other old baseball game. Press A to pitch the ball. Also, you can hold down up or down on the d-pad to make the pitch faster or slower. Also, right and left will make it curve in the desired direction. Easy as pie!

=====
Fielding [00043]
=====

Fielding in this game is quite unique, as it doesn't have the top down view like most old baseball games. If you need to throw it to a desired base, here is the list:

- Up - Home plate
- Left - 1st Base
- Down - 2nd Base
- Right - 3rd Base

So, just press A along with the desired direction to throw to that base. To catch the ball, listen to the sound and when it reaches the apex, position your player near the shadow and adjust if need be.

Team Rosters [00004]

Here, I'll list all players in two separate tables. The first will contain all fielding players along with their offensive stats. The second contains the pitchers including their pitching stats.
