Well this is it, I've been very late on getting out my last update and been getting emails asking whats up on my end. Its been very busy, very hellish for me lately, so a couple of my planned CAWs haven't had time to get written up, in particular my Rhino. It's a shame, but I'm sure if its wanted there will be one posted up somewhere. Mind you, if people really bug me for it, maybe I'll add him in, someday in the future. This is it, the last update. Its a possibility that it might get updated someday from now, but its not likely. So I ask now that everyone stops sending in submissions. I'll probably make another CAW guide when the Gamecube's wrestling game (if done by Aki/THQ) comes out, but No Mercy's had it. Anyways enjoy the lastCAWs, and thanks for the support!

On to the good stuff.

WWF No Mercy - Author's Thoughts

+=====+
Frankly, it's a good game. You've all probably played the first of the series, WWF Wrestlemania 2000, and probably loved it like everybody else. And if your like me, you find you can't put the game down for too long, because your always trying to keep the game's roster updated to the TV shows while bringing to life some of your own creations and your own likenesses of other people and stuff. The Ladder matches and table breaking is all cool and good. but when it comes down to it, it's the Create A Wrestler (CAW) feature that rules all. Just the chance to awe a friend or two with a great likeness of a former great or another game's character is worth the price tag to me. Plus, Triple H to the top baby, yeah!!

Razor Ramon                    by Shawn Burk

So the first one I made as soon as I got the game, just had to be Razor Ramon. I'd kill to have him back in the WWF with the same ass-kicking gimmick he had then. With his old persona in mind, I decided he'd best fit in to the DX Stable. Obviously when you make your own your free to put him wherever you want, but keep in mind you may have to tweak a taunt or a move or two (like the 10 Punch with DX Pose turnbuckle move). I've also underscored any moves that must be purchased from the Smackdown! Mall or otherwise unlocked, and also CAPITALIZED moves that are favourites.

Raven by Shawn Burk

When I was tinkering around in the editor and saw the Biker/Flannel Entrance Attire, I knew I had to make a Raven. I like the rendition of this one, and as usual you can always make changes to the different moves, its only a guide afterall. :)

Molly Holly by Shawn Burk

Okay, I'm gonna admit it. I don't know Molly Holly very well... AT ALL. A friend of mine swore that Female face 14 (and after a while, we all agreed) that its supposed to be Molly Holly. So he told me to just make one for him. So here's what he got, a very rushed near-clone of Crash Holly. I know you all can do better... so prove it to me, submit a better Molly Holly!

Heimdall by Shawn Burk

Storytime! So I'm up late until about 4am trying to beat the damned Survival Mode for the first time, while also hoping to pick up the remaining hidden characters I need (as I write this, still need Linda McMahon). So I've made it as far as I had ever been, the computer eliminated somewhere between 10-15 guys and my counter was at 87, so I knew I was close. Then all of a sudden music I had never heard before cued, sounding very ominous. And Andre The Giant headed to the ring. Problem. I was beaten up so badly by now, if I was hit a couple steps away from the ropes I'd surely go right on over. But I knew I had to eliminate that monster to unlock him. To the point, he beat me even more senseless. I was absolutely floored by the awesome might of the best rendition of Andre the Giant, who I raved about in different places in this guide. Holy crapola indeed. The day after, I had to learn why Andre was so damn tough. I had to make a giant killer. I had to bend the rules like no other CAW-made wrestler before. I had to get even. So I made an original creation with one thought in mind: Smash Andre. And this my friends, is Heimdall. Did it work? Build him and find out for yourself.

Ken Masters/Ryu/Akuma/Sheng Long by Shawn Burk

This Ken Masters/Ryu/Akuma/Master Li combination CAW rules. Its so fun to play as, but just try to FIGHT, not WRESTLE when you use the character, okay? Oh, and one other thing. I figured if these guys really did exist, they'd have been bought off by the McMahons and given something Eastern and quick for their music. This should explain something soon. :)

Also, there is still more dissention as to what the name of the Master who taught Ken and Ryu their stuff. Some say Sheng Long, some say Master Gouken. For the sake of me going crazy, USE WHICHEVER ONE YOU WANT. I really appreciate the help, honest I do, but I'm leaving it as is right now just so I can move on to other CAWs. Beleive it or not, I've had to rewrite this guy 3 times before Version 0.21 came out. THREE TIMES! Yike!

STAMPEDE by Josh Coran

Since the beginning of time, there have been many leaders. Confucius, Ceaser, George Washington, and most recently, Vince McMahon. Since purchasing his father's small wrestling business in 1982, McMahon has become the icon of sports entertainment. He has tried many a time to find the perfect wrestler. First was Hogan, then Hart, then Michaels, then Undertaker, then Austin, then Rock, then Triple H, and his most recent experiment, Kurt Angle. They are all great, but they weren't quite the mold McMahon was looking for. He needed size, strength, speed, stamina, and brains all in one person. This was all for lost, until now... I present to you, Stampede.

Neo by Shawn Burk

After being inspired by the Six Seconds Magic move and seeing the movie one more time, I decided to make a Neo. And there's good news and bad news with it. Bad news is, I can't decide which entrance attire works better. Edge's trenchcoat has the white and doesn't look as right, but Undertaker's looks perfect but adds that stupid bandanna. So I guess, take your pick. Also, I couldn't find many moves that felt Matrix-esque (i.e. moves with a lot of hangtime, acrobatic kungfu, moves that look impossible in the real world, etc), so I'm not too happy with the movelist either, but its got enough of a basic to it here anyways. I mean, I did give him a lot of roundhouse type kicks...

Desperado by OneHoPimp

Using him in survival mode, i completed the entire mode in 40 minutes. And he's good because you dont have to buy that much from the SD mall to make him. **Note**Until Front Strong Grapple: Russian Neckdrop is purchased, Fire Thunder can be his finisher. Also, until Upper Body Submission Facing Down Special: Russian Neckdrop is bought, Crippler Crossface can be used. Lastly, until Running Back Grapple: Release German Suplex is bought, Bulldog can be used. Jeans 2 can also be used until Gi2 is bought. With that said, here he is...the survivor....Desperado!!

He's just balanced, but he's an offensive guy that gives you the chance to make nearly unheard of comebacks

Al F'n Bundy by Shawn Burk

I love to say it, I don't get any better results when I play anyone else. For me, Al is the man. For comedy and "battle gear of Polk High", try costume number 4 once you make him. Oh, to explain my choices of rivals... anyone who ever watched the tv show knows Al got a thing against women. Nuff said, so as Al has always said....

"Let's rock."

Bruce Lee "The Dragon" by WhiteWolf^orb^

I made this character to win ladder & cage matches faster & easier than with the normal wrestlers. It turns out he's one hell of a fighter (as he was in real life). I've gotten 83 hits in survival before (tada) Shamrock & X-Pac decided to make things harder for me, by knocking me out of the ring :>. Notice his unique style of fighting, dealing mainly with kickboxing & Tae Kwan Do style, part of his own martial arts, Jeet Kune Do. Anyway, I chose Kicking Combination 02 for his finisher because it is funny as hell to see him do it, and it fits perfectly with his style. If you're gonna change it, use something like fireball (for his one-inh punch he was so famous for) or a punching finisher, but it's your decision of course.

Trial & Error (Seperate Tag CAW's) by WhiteWolf^orb^
My second Tag Team CAW's, Trial & Error are a great Combo, though I chose different basic moves, their Front Specials are the hangman's ddt, aptly renamed Hung Jury. They are (is it really not that obvious?)
a former lawyer team, able to kick some major tail in and out of court (not based on real life lawyers, just named & made to look like real life people).

Muller

by RVincent

When I played No Mercy, I just have to create a wrestler because there's always something missing from every default wrestler. It's either their moves, status, speed, anything! So I created Muller, a quick wrestler with fast and powerful moves. Some favorite moves are moves that I would like to call "cheap-a**-but-effective" move so if you don't want to make it a favorite, then don't. Moves beginning and ended with _ have to be bought from SMACKDOWN MALL. Moves in CAPITALS are favorites.

Well there you have it, the latest edition of my very first Guide. Hope this gave you some fun ways to spend some time on No Mercy, and I also hope you've gotten ideas from these above CAWs as well. If you have some questions, ask away too, and I'll see what I can do. I may not be able to answer you personally for a while, I only go online every 3 or 4 days. So in a nutshell, send questions, complaints, death threats, praise, corrections and anything else to: deadsider@home.com
