 \ Introduction (INTRO) /
 O=====O

I've frequented the GameFAQs site for a while, but until now, I've never tried to submit anything. Anyway, I got the game Brave Story: New Traveler when it first came out, and to my surprise, I ended up being one of the first people on the board to complete the English version of the game. One of the most frequent questions I noticed on the board was about different monsters and how to craze them. Seeing as how one of the unlockables after beating the game tells how to craze different monsters, I helped make a list on the board telling how to craze which monsters. The only thing was, it didn't tell what crazed monsters dropped what. I had a lot of time on my hands, so I ended up going about and finding all the crazed monster drops and making a crazed monster guide for the board. Then someone had the nerve to suggest that it would be so much more helpfull if it included ALL of each monster's drops, instead of just the crazed drops and where to find them. I spluttered a little bit, but seeing as how I still had a lot of time on my hands, I made one for the boards. I got tired of bumping it though, so here it is, in FAQ form. This is my first FAQ, so hopefully it's not too bad.

 \ Crazed Monsters (CZDM) /
 O=====O

Up until the point in the game where you have to go craze a Giranha, you can't craze monsters. After that point though, they are all fair game. Use a certain monster's craze trigger on it, and it has a certain chance of becoming crazed. In order to complete your monster book in game you will have to go out and craze every monster in the book that has a crazed form. Unfortunatly, there's no shortcuts.

Note*: I recently recieved an email from someone saying that it is possible to craze monsters even before you get Kee-Keema for your party. I was never able to do this, but it could just be that I have bad luck. Just a heads up for you people out there still reading this.

O=====O

|Percentage|

O=====O

The percentage refers to the number of monsters that will become crazed upon the first use or application of the crazed trigger. If the monster you are trying to craze does not craze on the first application of the trigger, that particular monster will never craze no matter how many times the trigger is applied. ie, go fight a different monster of the same breed.

O=====O

| Stones |

O=====O

These little buggers can be invaluable to someone trying to complete their monster guide. You can buy Fire Stones and Water Stones in Lanka, and you can buy Wind and Lightning Stones in Sakawa. Each of these stones will always do 20 damage to the monster they are thrown at, unless the enemy is weak to the element of the stone that you threw at it, in which case it will do 30 damage, no matter how highly you are leveled or how powerful you become. You can also find Throwing Stones in that area which can be stolen from any Rablin save for the Rablin Mage, and are dropped by many different enemies throughout the game. These stones will always do 20 damage as they have no element. These stones can be a real lifesaver when you are trying to get your enemy below 10% health, or hit it with an elemental attack, but you are too overleveled for it to survive the attack.

O=====O

|Locations|

O=====O

The locations in this guide were for the most part taken directly from the in game guide. However, I have noticed that a lot of people have trouble finding Northern and Central Arikita. The easiest way to find these two locations is posted as follows:

Northern Arikita: Go to the Craftmaster's Cabin and head north.

Central Arikita: Go to the Paulta Mines, but do not enter.

THANKS TO:

Miyuki Miyabe, for writing the original book

Game Republic, for developing this game

XSEED, for translating it

Matthew Mitschang, for the email stating that you can craze monsters before getting the highlander quest

Me, for acually writing this Guide

And SakoB, for that singularly irritating question which prompted this guide "Good Guide, but it would be so much more useful if..." Grinds teeth
