I. INTRODUCTION

This guide is intended to be a complete list of every way to acquire every item in Hexyz Force. I hope this FAQ will help you have more fun with the game and provide information organized as efficiently as possible. The items are sorted by the item number listed in the Extras Mode in the game. If you want to look for an item just search for either the name of the item or search for the item number in brackets [].

As aforementioned, this FAQ is sorted by Ragnafacts, Spirifacts, & Forcefacts, as in the Extras Mode in the game. Ragnafacts are weapons that consume RP to use their skills, but have unlimited durability. Spirifacts are weapons that consume durability to use their skills. For some reason, both are listed under Ragnafacts in the Extras Mode, but I separate them here. Forcefacts include headgear, body armor, footwear, accessories, and all other items in the game. While most other equipment is sorted by type, this is not always the case. As such, for the sake of consistency, I sort them by item number.

Note that this is not a walkthrough for Hexyz Force. I am writing this list having played the digital version available on the PSN. To my knowledge, I am unaware of any differences with other versions of the game.

One of the lesser known facts about the game is that certain chests do not have fixed contents, and can change, depending on various conditions. Yellow chests change their contents, depending on which way the vessel is tilting, at the time. You do not have to wait until the end of the Phase, for this change to occur. Also, smoking chests change their contents, depending on whether you choose to infuse force to get the contents, or just open it and fight the Mimic instead. I have taken all such changes into account, in this guide.

Many items change their locations, depending on whether you are on Cecilia's path or Levant's path. This includes initial equipment, sidequest rewards, and treasure locations, but NOT harvest points. As such, I will denote which path the item is located in with [C] for Cecilia or [L] for Levant. If there is no such denotation, then it is the same for both paths.

The only potential item locations that I think I'm missing are alternate or redundant sidequest rewards. For example, if you fail some sidequests, I think you might get a different reward. Also, some sidequests are repeatable, and may have rewards that I'm unaware of, at this time. Currently, my list only contains the rewards for succeeding at every sidequest. It's also possible that I could have missed a sidequest, though I think I was very thorough.

In the last section, I created a Fusion Component List. This lists every Spirifact & Forcefact in the game and what fusions and recipes they are used to create. If nothing is listed there, then you're probably just best off converting it into FP. For example, Energy Mists are used in no fusions or recipes, so you might as well just convert every one you find into FP.

I will do my best to avoid spoilers in this FAQ. That said, I'll obviously have to mention character and dungeon names, which may be spoilers. If that is more information than you want to know about the plot, you may want to try the GameFAQs message boards.

If you have some new information, know something I missed, know a better way to do something, got a death threat, or a marriage proposal, please send your comments to the aforementioned email address.

Thanks to Atom Edge, whose Item List on Final Fantasy 3/6 inspired the format I used to create this one.

Thanks to Alltra for helping me find the locations of a few items that I was unable to find on my own.

Thanks to Fein on my forums for helping me translate some Japanese and figuring out how the yellow chests worked.

Thanks to Rena Chan for deciphering which elements yielded which item drops from all of the monsters in the game.

Thanks to Taku on my forums for suggesting that I play this game.

Thanks GameFAQs for hosting this item list and for creating the most awesome website on the planet!
