AUTHOR'S NOTE

Front Mission 2 is arguably the one main Front Mission installment that receives the smallest bit of attention outside of Japan. And with good reason since it's the only one, outside of Front Mission 5: Scars of the War, that hasn't been sent overseas. Regardless, I'm sure there's someone out there who has the game and needs help. So, I've decided to make a guide collection that details everything in Front Mission 2. This one particularly for the game's Network feature and what you can do with it. Enjoy!

Sites allowed to post this guide:

<http://www.gamefaqs.com>
<http://www.gamespot.com>
<https://www.neoseeker.com>
<http://www.supercheats.com>

I will consider allowing other sites to post this guide if I get an email on the address shown above. I'm usually open to allowing other sites to post my guides provided that I am credited for my work. I assume anyone reading this is aware of the guide's purpose so I don't think I need to explain that. Also, don't try and pass this work of as your own. I've created this guide in a certain way that allows me to identify if someone has plagiarized from my guide. Respect those who spend a great deal of time making guides to help out other people. We don't do it just because guide writing is fun, you know!

1. INTRODUCTION

[INTR]

This is a Network guide for Front Mission 2 for the Playstation, released only in Japan. This guide details the basics of Network usage as well as a transcript of all materials covered inside the Network. Go to GameFAQs if you are looking for walkthroughs of the game. With that said, let's move onto the main attraction!

2. BASICS

[BASE]

The Network is a nifty new feature in Front Mission 2 that lets the player learn more about the world of Front Mission and the game's backstory. The Network is made up of numerous web addresses, which contain web pages with information and such. To access a web address and its web pages, you have to manually input the address or unlock it by doing certain actions. When a web address or page is unlocked, it becomes an entry that can be accessed through the Network browser. Not all web addresses and pages will become entries, but it beats manual input whenever you wish to use them.

Network interface:

|-----| |-----| | |
