1. Introduction

Welcome to my K-1 Grand Prix FAQ. K-1 Grand Prix is a kick boxing game for Playstation. It features 32 real K-1 Fighters and has four different modes of play. K-1 Grand Prix isn't that good of a game but if you like kick boxing you may enjoy it. With sluggish control and no analog suport this game feels like a first generation Playstation game. In this FAQ, I give you my personal strategy plus a lot of extra details you may want to know about K-1 Grand Prix. I hope you like this FAQ and if you have any comments please throw them my way by e-mailing me at DreThug@hotmail.com.

2. Update History

July 9th 2001 - First version of this FAQ.

3. Basic Controls

Here I have listed the basic moves for the game. All of these moves work with each boxer.

Initial Game Controls

Square.....Punch Left
Triangle.....Punch Right
X.....Kick Left
Circle.....Kick Right
D-Pad.....Move fighter
L1.....Dodge Left
L2.....Not Used

R1.....Dodge Right
R2.....Not Used
Select.....Not Used

4. Game Modes

There are many modes of play for K-1 Grand Prix. Here I have listed each mode of gameplay with a brief description of each.

K-1 Kings - This is the basic one player mode of the game. You can pick a boxer and participate in matches with other boxers.

K-1 Hercules - Have a friend over? Then play K-1 Hercules. This is a standard two player mode.

K-1 Grand Prix - This is actually a tournament mode. You can pick up to 16 fighters with 2 fighters fighting at once.

K-1 Challenge - Create your own boxer and then play through a season type of mode. Train your fighter to become the best and win championships. This can only be played with one player.

Training - Need help with pulling over combos? Then use this training mode and practice all of the moves you want to.

Ring Side - This has to be the dumbest mode ever. In this mode you get to watch two fighters controlled by the computer fight.

Option - Change the game setting and stuff like that.

10. Personal Strategy

Here I have listed my strategy for both regular fights and the K-1 Challenge Mode.

Fighting An Opponent

At the beginning of a match make sure you pick a boxer with a lot of speed so you can run around and dodge punches. When I fight the computer I usually get in a jab or uppercut and then move away. This helps because your opponent can't punch or kick back because you are far away. If you punch once and then back off you should win. After you do a couple of punches make sure you follow through with a kick. If your power is down, make sure you run away until the end of the round so you can get your power refreshed. If you are winning and want the match to end then just go up the your opponent and keep on jabbing at his head. He may get a lot of power off of you, but if you are winning by a lot you will win.

K-1 Challenge Mode

When I played through this mode and won a lot of matches I did a lot of stuff. First, when you are training make sure you get your stamina and speed up. I get my speed up because it's a lot easier to dodge punches. Also, try to keep your fatigue low. I mostly worked on my arms and my legs.

I didn't do much to my head or body. Also, when you are training you should put your five stars on one move. Don't split up your stars a lot. Make sure you assign moves to yourself. I tried to get all of them.
